2 Fairless Hills Women Injured, 3rd Dies in Crash

Collision Occurs At Mill Creek And Green Lane

A Fairless Hills woman died and two other women, also of Fairless Hills, were seriously injured in a two-car accident early today at Mill Creek road and Green Lane, in Bristol township.

Mrs. Betty Lukens, 28, of 416 Boston drive, Fairless Hills, driver of one of the cars, died half an hour after her admittance to Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., where she was rushed by the Bucks County Rescue Squad.

Condition Is Fair

Seriously injured in the crash were Beverly Dunn, 23, 233 Anderson drive, and Mrs. Janet Marietta, 233 Olds Boulevard. Mrs. Dunn suffered head injuries and Mrs. Marietta was treated for a fractured pelvis and lacerations of the left knee.

Hospital physicians listed the condition of both women as fair.

Driver of the other car, John J. Weis, 31, of 102 S. Hickory street, Mt. Carmel, who was arrested by the police on a charge of involuntary manslaughter and violation of the traffic code. Justice of the Peace Rene Tritschler held Weis on a $500 bail bond, posted this morning. A hearing will be held at a later date.

Crashed Side of Car

Officers Harry Bauer and Robert Lawrence said Weis drove through a stop sign on Mill Creek road and crashed into the side of Mrs. Lukens' automobile.

The impact of the crash drove both cars off the road. Police said the cars were demolished.

Court Continues Zoning Appeal By Cleaning Firm

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 9 — Hearings in the appeal of Bertram H. Goldwater and the Safety Dry Cleaning Inc., against the Bristol Zoning Board of Adjustment have been continued until Oct. 22.

Presiding Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite granted the continuation because J. Leslie Kilcoyne, attorney representing some of the adjacent property owners, could not attend the hearing yesterday.

Leased in March

Goldwater, president of the cleaning firm, testified that he leased the building at Bath and Otter streets from William and Max Bass, Philadelphia, in March. He applied to the zoning board for permission to do dry cleaning on the premises and, after two adjustment hearings, permission was denied. The board maintained the proposed installation would be undesirable.

The second witness, Chester Wise, general manager of the firm, said that in the present setup he must transport all garments from the Radcliffe street building used by the firm to the Bath and Otter street office. He said this was detrimental to the business, because people like their clothing cleaned in the same building they take them to. He added that he had had a 15-gallon drum of solvent installed at the Bath street address at a cost of $95.

First Woman Grad Of Penn U. Is Dead

Death yesterday claimed Mrs. Gertrude K. Easby at the age of 94 at her home, 201 West Maple avenue, Langhorne. Mrs. Easby, widow of Francis H. Easby, was one of the first two co-eds of the University of Pennsylvania, Phila., and was the oldest alumna of the University.

During her youth Mrs. Easby studied chemistry at the Women's Medical College, Philadelphia. Custom and practice forbade admission of women to colleges in that day, and it was considered a victory when she and another young woman, Anna Flanigan, were admitted to the Towne Institute, later merged with the University of Pennsylvania. They were the only women in the class of 1878.

After completing her course, the youthful graduate was employed by her father in his dental office for a year. As a result of some of her research work, she and her father found financial returns that equalled her college expenses. In 1884 she was married to Francis Easby. Throughout her life, Mrs. Easby was active in community affairs. At 86 she was granted a certificate of award by the Philadelphia Council of Defense for distinguished civilian service in World War II.

She was a member of Langhorne Sorosis and of Middletown Friends Meeting.

Road Builders Come Closer

DETERMINED TO SIT it out until the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission offers a suitable settlement on their property, Mr. and Mrs. William Marsh eye road-building machinery as it nears their home. Parents of nine children, the Marsh's have erected a temporary home 100 yards from the scene in the event they are evicted. Shown with parents are left to right: Kevin, 2; Beryl, 4, and infant Wendel.

Family Of 11 Stages Sitdown To Get Cash From Turnpike

Mr. and Mrs. William Marsh, and their nine children of Oak avenue, Magnolia Gardens, today reaffirmed their promise to sit it out until the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission makes a cash settlement on their property.

The Marsh home stands directly in line with the Delaware Extension right-of-way. Heavy earth moving machinery and bulldozers had nuzzled their way into the Marsh property at 9 a. m. yesterday. Mrs. Marsh said later that construction workers had moved earth into the front lawn.

"I am at a loss as to what to do," said Mrs. Marsh, "although we are building another home about 100 yards from here, I am frantic because it's far from finished. I just can't allow my children to live in a house where the walls are still being built."

"Nothing on Paper"

Mrs. Marsh said the Turnpike Commission had not arrived at a suitable settlement.

"The only thing we have heard has been by word of mouth — nothing has been put on paper," added Mrs. Marsh, "and we cannot move unless we have money to invest on our new home. Promises mean nothing to me. I must see it in writing."

A spokesman of the right-of-way department of the Turnpike Commission in Harrisburg said that a settlement has been made, and the papers are in transit to the Marsh's attorney, Paul J. Barrett, 205 Radcliffe street, Bristol.

James Misunderstanding

"Mrs. Marsh was told more than a year ago to prepare to move from her property," the spokesman said, "we have experienced many cases similar to the Marsh problem, and we find that it's usually a case where there is a misunderstanding between the commission and the home owner. We realize that legal technicalities are difficult to understand by the layman, but in this case I am sure that Mr. and Mrs. Marsh will come to an agreement."

Marsh, who runs a small trucking business, said he did not want to seem bold or to pretend that "we are trying to put on a show to impress anyone with our legal rights, but so many officials of the Turnpike have approached us with deals that were not official that we have no alternative than to sit it out until we are given a fair settlement."

No figures on the amount of the settlement were available. Neither Mr. and Mrs. Marsh nor representatives of the Turnpike Commission offered to allow the cash figure to be published.

Officials Suggest Tips on How To Prevent Fires

Two Lower Bucks County fire chiefs have advice for the residents of the area as Fire Prevention Week comes to a close tomorrow.

John Doster, chief of the Edgely Volunteer Fire Co., urged motorists to exercise caution when throwing ashes and cigarettes from car windows.

He suggested that all home owners have their chimneys cleaned out before starting their winter fires. Doster recommended an over-all check of the entire heating system.

Morrisville Fire Chief Rowland Gorton joined Doster in urging residents to "use extreme caution when burning dry leaves or papers, especially near fields."

Gorton suggested that leaves or papers be burned in suitable incinerators. He reminded Morrisville residents that burning is not permitted in borough streets.

Morrisville boro's Bureau of Fire Prevention, under the direction of Frank Cowell, will check homes in the borough to see if a fire hazard does exist, on request. Those interested should call Cowell or Gorton.

Victim of Skidding Car Dies in Hospital

Santiago Salviche, 43, an international purchasing agent from Argentina, died in Abington Memorial Hospital yesterday from injuries suffered Tuesday night when he was struck by a skidding car on Route 202 in New Hope.

Salviche was standing beside a car belonging to John F. Myers, Jr., 18, New Hope. The car had collided with Salviche's auto a few minutes earlier. W. James Shoenthal, 16, who came to the scene after the first crash, also was injured. Salviche and Shoenthal were struck by a car driven by Mrs. Helen Volare 70, a restaurant owner in Ingham Springs, when her car skidded on the wet pavement.

Shoenthal is in Abington Hospital with fractures of both legs.

Weatherman Sees Milder Weekend

Weathermen at the United States Weather Bureau in Trenton promise fair weather over the week-end and rather mild temperatures.

Woman Named Head of Young GOP in County

Hackett Retires; Mrs. Fairchild Is His Successor

The resignation of James Hackett, Perkase newspaperman, as chairman of the Bucks County Young Republican Club was accepted at a recent meeting of the executive committee. Hackett was forced to resign because of ill health.

Mrs. Charles R. Fairchild, Doylestown, vice-chairman, was chosen to fill the vacancy. Mrs. Fairchild, a charter member of the organization, has been active in the Republican club for several years.

There will be a county-wide meeting of the group at 8:15 p. m., Tuesday Oct. 20, at the Bucks County Inn, Doylestown. At that time the group will discuss a set of by-laws.

Board to be Enlarged

"These by-laws will give greater representation to the various local affiliated clubs, by allotting each group at least one member on the board of directors," Mrs. Fairchild said. "This way all the affiliated clubs in Bucks County will have a hand in forming the plans and policies of the club. The result will be a more closely knit organization."

At present there are about 175 members in the club throughout Bucks County. The group is planning a membership drive in the near future.

Attended Conference

Five members of the club attended the regional conference of the Pennsylvania federation in Allentown last weekend. Attending were Mrs. Fairchild; Mrs. Joseph W. Howe, Doylestown; George W. Lynch, Davisville, and Dr. and Mrs. Harvey D. Groff, Quakertown.

Included in the program was a speech by Sully Barnes, of South Dakota, newly-elected national chairman of the group, who told of the work being done by Young Republicans in the marginal voting districts.

Congressman Karl C. King was one of a panel of Republican leaders, who discussed "the Role the Pennsylvania Young Republican must play in the coming gubernatorial and congressional elections."

Bucks Banks Win Point in Fight On Branch Operations

Back from a meeting of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association Council of Administration at State College, three members of the Bucks County Bankers Association, reported formation of a 13-man committee to study branch banking.

The Bucks County group has opposed cross country banking. The Bucks group had charged that the PBA "has neglected its duties by not pressing hard enough the legislation barring cross country banking."

The Bucks county bankers attending were Robert B. Hance, Jr., of Newtown, president of the Bucks group; Elmer C. Cates, Doylestown Trust Co., secretary; and John C. Johnson, cashier of the Farmers National Bank, Bristol.

The PBA president, J. C. Warner, Jr., of Milford, reported that the new committee will report its findings to the PBA council at its spring meeting at Sky Top, March 28-29.

STREET LIGHT LEVIES BEFORE COMMISSION

Methods of assessing Levittown home owners for street lights when Bristol Township takes over the street light system from Levitt & Sons, Inc., were discussed last night by Bristol Township Commissioners in the Township Building, Emilie.

An ordinance setting up lighting districts in the Levittown area will be introduced when the commissioners meet at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Edgely firehouse, Commissioner Eugene Stutz said.

Wide Expansion Proposed For Twp. Schools

Plans to put additional classrooms on the three elementary schools under construction in Bristol township were announced last night at a meeting of the township school directors, who moved to ask the School Authority to arrange to finance them.

The school board will also ask the Authority to start arrangements for a new high school, to be erected on Mill Creek road.

Straub said eight rooms will be added to the almost-completed John Fitch School, Levittown, whose original plans called for 20; seven to the six-room George Taylor School, Newportville, and 10 rooms to George Clymer School, Croydon, where eight rooms have been started.

Howell Lewis Shaw, Philadelphia architect for the Fitch and Clymer Schools showed expansion plans to the school board, and was directed to build the extra rooms.

"It's going to require a lot of money," warned Straub, who advised the finance committee to "explore the long range possibilities of raising revenue for general overhead for the next five years."

Advice Urged

"In a lot of our expansion," he said, "we have been dipping into the funds of our real estate transfer tax. This will drop off considerably with completion of the building going on now."

Straub urged the finance committee to seek professional advice in the finance problem. "We need industry in this area," he said.

"It would help tremendously. I hope the structure can be drawn without any increase in taxes."

School Superintendent Walter D. Miller announced that the cornerstone will be laid for the John Fitch School Saturday, Oct. 31, in a ceremony starting at 10 a. m. Classes, for Levittown pupils, will begin there the following Monday, Nov. 2, he said.

Walking Distance

Miller recommended that the board open Fitch School to children of Stonybrook, Farmbrook, Greenbrook, Oaktree Hollow, Crabtree Hollow and Dogwood Hollow. He said all homes in these sections are within walking distance.

The "Levitt plan," whereby William J. Levitt intends to build the township two more Levittown schools for $800,000, and lend the money, if necessary, was not discussed at the meeting, but Straub later said if state authorities perhomed this, the saving of funds will expedite the extra rooms in the present construction.

Agrees to Wait. Kaelin agreed to waiting for the state superintendent's answer to the board, but added: "If the answer from the state is that you don't have to talk to the drivers, then we'll have to find a way to talk."

Interviewed after he left the meeting, Kaelin said he did not know of any school districts which presently contract with his union.

Gallagher said he is seeking negotiations, "to bring the drivers hours, wages, and working conditions to a level with the rest of the workers in this area through peaceful negotiations and collective bargaining."

The $150 hourly pay in the township, Gallagher said, is "the lowest possible rate in the area for bus drivers."

Gallagher said he was prepared to present the union's demands to the school board. These he listed as union recognition, eight-hour day and 40 hour week, with time Continued on Page Two

Steel Firm Is Silent On Channel Proposal

An Army engineer offer to deepen the Delaware River channel to 40 feet between the Philadelphia Naval Base and Newbold Island, opposite Fairless Works in Falls Township, if U. S. Steel or "other local interests" meet half the cost of $36,000,000, received no response today.

Spokesmen for the Fairless Works of U. S. Steel said there was "no comment at this time" on the Army offer which was revealed Wednesday by Rep. William A. Barrett (D., Pa.). Barrett said he received a letter from Maj. Gen. S. D. Sturgis, Jr., Chief of Engineers, outlining the offer.

Confined to Firm

In justifying the unprecedented offer Sturgis said that "evidence indicates that the use of depths greater than 35 feet now or in the foreseeable future will be confined to a single company."

U. S. Steel plans to ship Venezuelan iron ore directly to the Fairless Works in large ships which would require channel depths of about 40 feet. At present ore ships approaching Newbold Island are not fully laden.

The channel is 37 feet to the Naval Base and 25 feet from there to Newbold Island. Army engineers plan to increase the depth of the latter stretch to 35 feet. An additional five feet would cost an estimated $36,000,000, the engineers said.

Deepening the channel may render the water from the river and river-fed wells between Trenton and the ocean unfit for drinking purposes, J. Cecil Rhodes, chemical consultant for the Danherst Corporation, builders of Fairless Hills, cautioned. Sea water would tend to encroach on the river, he said.

Supply Ample

He pointed out, however, that there was an ample supply of water available from wells located at a distance from the river.

Rhodes also said increased salinity of the water would be a threat of damage to machinery in plants along the river.

Postpone Meeting Of Vets on Housing

The meeting scheduled for last night by a group of Fairless Hills veterans was postponed, according to Walter Jackson, their attorney. The purpose of the meeting was to ascertain the stand of the VA in the veterans' controversy with the Danherst Corporation over their homes.

Jackson explained that, because of other appointments, Richard McClurely, a representative of the VA office in Philadelphia, was unable to attend.

The group's next move, said Jackson, will be to go to the VA office, 128 N. Broad street, Philadelphia, and to talk with the loan guarantee officer. The meeting will be some time next week.

He said the noise of the machinery would be negligible.

Water Operations For Fairless Hills Delayed by Tests

Extended tests of the new permanent water filtering plant near Curtis Lake in Falls township have delayed the full time operation of water supply to Fairless Hills and Fallsington, it was announced today by John A. Collins, chairman of the Falls Township Authority. It is hoped, Collins said, that new plant will be functioning by tomorrow or Monday. Once in operation the filter unit will aid in alleviating the water shortage in the Fairless Hills and Fallsington communities.

State to Give Signal

Preliminary tests have been conducted since Tuesday. When completed, the plant will become part of the township water system. George Elias, district engineer for the state water department, will give the go-ahead signal when the tests show maximum efficiency. Collins added.

The dry-run tests, thus far run, have proved "more than adequate," according to Howard LaVan, township authority engineer. The total output of the new plant will exceed 500 gallons a minute, or more than enough to override the present water shortage, Collins said.

Pumping Unit Used

The operation of a temporary filter system in use at Curtis Lake was halted Tuesday, when the tests were started. A fire engine pumping unit of the Fairless Hills Volunteer Fire Co., drawing water from the lake and pumping it through the temporary system, supplemented the water supply from one of the two wells dug recently by the authority.

and a half for work after regular runs and work on days off and holidays; "substantial wage increase in line with wages of other township workers;" two weeks vacation after five years' service; insurance and hospitalization; "clarification of work expected to be performed;" and "grievance and discipline procedure."

A school district bus driver who voiced his complaints was Elbert McQuaid said of the board: "If they want competent bus drivers, they should bring us up to a fair standard of living. With double sessions in the schools, we're on call 11 hours a day for eight hours pay."

"When we're not driving," McQuaid said, we have to clean, wash, grease and do light maintenance on the buses."

Contests Claim

Straub, contesting McQuaid's statement, acknowledged that the drivers get eight hours' pay a day, totalling $12 at the hourly rate, but said they drive an average of less than six hours daily and spend an average of a half hour a day on bus maintenance.

In addition, Straub said, the drivers get seven paid holidays, a week's vacation with pay after a year of service with an additional day for each year up to two weeks and five days annual sick leave which can accumulate to 20 days.

The school board president said the drivers are covered by the state public school employees retirement system in which they contribute. The fund gets aid from the school district and state.

"In the summer they have general maintenance work, to be assured of 52 weeks' work a year," Straub said. "We pay for their medical examinations and training time."

Mrs. William Veisz, of 461 Court A, Bristol Terrace II, suffered back injuries when the bus she was taking to work suddenly stopped. Mrs. Veisz, a waitress, was admitted to the dispensary of the Bristol General Hospital.

PLACE NAMES In BUCKS COUNTY

Excerpts from the book of that name, published by The Bucks County Historical Society, an historical narrative compiled by the late George MacReynolds, librarian of that society, and copyrighted in 1912.

Hulmeville

Borough on Neshaminy Creek, erected from southwestern Middle-town Township in 1872. Its first name was Milford, then Hulmeville. The Hulme family from which Hulmeville took its name is of Norman origin, dating from William the Conqueror. The name originally was DeHouline. Members of the family first settled in Lancashire, England, a branch moving later to Cheshire, and the American family came from this branch. George Hulme, Sr., and son, George Jr., arrived in this country about 1700 from Tiltston, Cheshire, and settled in Middletown Township, where they bought land, some of the family later removing to "Nuckingham. John Hulme, Jr., a great-grandson of the immigrant, after his marriage in 1770 to Rebecca Milnor, daughter of William Milnor, of Fallsington, removed with his father from Buckingham to Fallsington. There they carried on a large weaving business until 1796, when John Hulme, Jr., purchased land on Neshaminy Creek covering most of the site of the present borough of Hulmeville, which he called Milford (mill at the ford). At that time there was but one dwelling house on the property. John Hulme was energetic to Hulmeville in his honor." (1) The bank was removed to Bristol in 1830 and subsequently became the Farmers' National Bank, which on January 9, 1940, celebrated the 125th year of its existence. The present president is former U. S. Senator Joseph R. Grundy, who is a lineal descendant of John Hulme, the first president. The Harrisons intermarried with the Hulmes and have long been prominent residents of Hulmeville. The following obituary notice is copied from the issue of the Doylestown Democrat of Oct. 29, 1833: "At the house of her son, George Harrison, in Hulmeville, on the 23rd of September, Rachel Harrison, at the advanced age of 84 years. She retained her mental faculties to the last, in a remarkable degree, and as late as one week before her death, recognized a gentleman whom she had not seen for thirty-five years—he had been an ensign under her husband in the Revolutionary War, and when conversing together, reminded him of many events that had occurred in those perilous times." Hulmeville has been more or less an industrial center from John Hulme's time down to the present, and was especially active along such lines in its early days, when it ranked first in that respect in the county. (2)

1. Information supplied by Miss Jeannette R. Harrison, Hulmeville.
2. The following advertisement from the Pennsylvania Correspondent, issue of Aug. 5, 1811, gives a good picture of the woolen industry of those days:
Hulmeville Manufactory
The subscribers return their thanks to the public for past favors, and acquaint them that they are establishing a Woolen & Worsted Manufactory at Hulmeville (formerly called Milford) Bucks County, Penna.: where they are now ready for the reception of either fine or coarse Wool, to manufacture into Cloth of any quality that the Wool shall be susceptible of making. As they have procured excellent workmen and machinery, the work shall be warranted well under her husband in the Revolutionary War, and when conversing together, reminded him of many events that had occurred in those perilous times." Hulmeville has been more or less an industrial center from John Hulme's time

"NO CHURCH FOR ME—

I can lead a Good Life Without It!"

Many people take that view. They fear that belonging to the Church would only be a hindrance. They lead good lives. They are respectable. That is enough for them. But has God left us a choice in the matter? God knows what is best for us. He knows we can do things better together than we can do them alone. Into His Church God put all the things we need: the truths we are to live by, forgiveness of our sins, confession — supernatural help. Sacraments—Holy Mass, that most effective supreme act of worship. These are the 'things you and I need in life. God has left them for us INSIDE not outside His Church. Why go it alone doing things YOUR WAY? It does seem that YOUR LIFE, good as it may be, would be a hundred times better if you did things GOD'S WAY. BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions; according to thy mercy remember thou me for thy goodness sake. O Lord.—Ps. 25:7.
If we turn from past sins with loathing and disgust God will surely blot our sins from the book of his remembrance.

Who Really Wrote The Bard's Works?

By Inez Robb

NEW YORK, Oct. 9. (INS)—Is your cultural slip showing? Are you, intellectually, as dated as a model T?
You can determine your cultural lag, if any, by answering the following questions:
1. Do you believe that a William Shakespeare wrote "Romeo and Juliet," "Hamlet," "Macbeth," "Antony and Cleopatra," "As You Like It," "The Merchant of Venice," "Henry V," et al? 2. Or do you believe these plays were written by a Sir Francis Bacon?
If you answer to either one of these questions is "yes," you are hopelessly out of touch with modern intellectual trends and will probably be crossed off the membership list of your local branch of the egghed union.
It is almost as old-hat now to believe that Bacon wrote the plays as to insist that Shakespeare did. The most important contender for the title of "author" in recent years has been Edward De Vere, seventeenth Earl of Oxford. But he is being challenged now by William Stanley, sixth Earl of Derby.
When it is understood that William Stanley is a member of the famous British family for which the derby hat and the derby race were named, it can readily be seen that his claims to authorship of the great classics is not easily cast aside.
Large tones, each supporting the claims of the rival earls, are but recently on the market. "This Star of England," by Dorothy and Charlton Ogburn, backs Oxford. "Shakespeare's Identity," by A. W. Titherly, backs Derby.
The authors of the two books agree on only one thing: that William was a loud and country bumpkin who couldn't possibly have written all the gorgeous stuff attributed to his by-line.
Do Titherly's book is a caution. He advanced his man's Derby's claims to the title through a brace of formulae which he appears to have salvaged from Prof. Albert Einstein's waste-paper basket.
By applying these formulae log R equals 2.4 minus .06V; and log S equals 2.2 minus .04V, the doctor proves to his own satisfaction that the Earl of Derby is solely responsible for the whole Shakespearean kit and kaboodle. What I say is—as I always say about Prof. Einstein—it is an interesting theory, but can he prove it?
Since both earls have been dead approximately as long as Shakespeare and-or Bacon, first hand evidence is negligible. But it makes dandy dinner-table conversation and fills in any gaps at Canasta.
But have you heard the really hot rumor going the rounds of literary circles, to the effect that a Britisher named Sir Lawrence Olivier is the real author of a couple of sensational plays, "Macbeth" and "Henry V"?
Well, you have now. As the author of the rumor, I promised to bolster it with irrefutable proof and formulae as soon as I have time to think them up. I see no reason why my entry should not at least place and show. Furthermore, I can produce my nominee, which is more than the Ogburns or Doc Titherly can do.
There is obviously money to be made in this renewed Shakespearean controversy, and I'm not proud. Furthermore, in this atomic age, I sincerely admire the scholar who can work himself into a lather over whether Will or two other fellows wrote Shakespeare. It really requires a detached mind detached from everything, if you ask me.

Your Birthday by STELLA
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 9 — Born today, you have a brilliant, alert mind which has an exceptionally keen sense of justice. You are destined for greatness if only you will make the best possible use of your talents. Your sense of humor, if utilized in the realm of criticism, could bring you fame. Your talent for diplomacy could take you into high places. Your ideals are high and you will make all kinds of personal sacrifice to see them materialize.
However, there are a few pitfalls. You are a creature of moods and must learn to control them if you are to be master of your own fate. You have a keen imagination and sometimes your dreams are significant. You might have them interpreted and find useful information in them. But again, you must be warned against taking them too seriously. You are a little too gullible, at times, for your own good. It is likely that the month of May will not be a propitious time for you to begin a new enterprise. If an opportunity to expand your activities presents itself at that time, delay decision until the following month, at least.
Your marriage should be a happy and contented one. You are fond of children and will want a large family of your own. Although you will be "boss" in your own family circle, you will be a very beloved one! You make a fine companion for your children and a really understanding parent.
To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birth day star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your guide.
Saturday, October 10
LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Plan to get some rest this week end. Tensions are mounting and it's about time you let down a little.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — If you can get outdoors this autumn weather, you will find that it does you a lot of good.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — If you play once in a while, then you will find that you work a lot better—and faster, after your recreation.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Let nothing interfere with your plans for a pleasant, relaxing week end. Let others romp. You take it easy.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — If you have been overdoing it this past week, now is the time to make up for it and get your rest.
PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) — Make plans to get out into the country if at all possible. The fresh air will do you good just now.
ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20) — Store up new energy to tackle what's ahead for you in the week to come. You'll need plenty.
TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — Don't let a misunderstanding disintegrate into a quarrel. Go more than half way to "kiss and make up."
GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Old friends and relatives are good fun. Plan a family gathering at your home this week end and enjoy yourself.
CANCER (June 22-July 22) — Get out of doors if the weather is right. Otherwise, plan to relax at home with the family.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) — Nerves can cause trouble unless you give them a rest now and then. This is as good a time as any to try it.
VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Curb those emotions! An outburst today could do a lot more harm than good. Don't get into an argument.

PLAY SAFE
Ever watch a group of school children waiting for a bus?
Their inclination is to play, tussle with one another, toss a ball or do one of the many things playful children will do.
Even the extremely careful driver may not be able to stop his car suddenly if a child runs in front of him.
It's commendable to see so many mothers doing police duty around schools - It will also help if parents will caution their children not to engage in horse-play while waiting for the bus.
Our drivers are doubly cautious when stopping for school children. That is one of the reasons why it's safe for them to travel.

"Lord of Death"

"Jesus Christ... Lord of All"—Acts 10:36.

Not only is Jesus Christ Lord of Life and sin but He is Lord of Death as well. Sharing in His victory over the grave we think not simply of yesterday, and today and tomorrow, but of yesterday, today, and for ever. Who or what else can give us any assurance here? Like Peter you and I must turn now and say "Lord, to whom shall we go, Thou hast the words of eternal life." The truth of the matter remains absolutely solid, that Christ's disciples knew and loved, had seen and spoken with their Master not only in the flesh, but after he had been dead and buried and had risen again victorious from the dead. He was their living Lord and is our living Lord today.

Christ it was who said "I go to prepare a place... I will come again... because I live yet shall also live." Perhaps you have a questioning, aching, un-certain heart. I bid you take these words into your heart, that in your grief, He the Lord of Life and Death may share.

No other has the right to speak as He has, for no other has passed through those gloomy portals and returned to tell us of the glory which lies beyond, for everyone who loves Him and takes Him at His word.

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

Loyalty To Friend Demands High Price

"DEAR MISS WOODWARD: The boy I like won't give me a second glance! He once wanted to go out with me but I wouldn't go because the girl he had been going steady with still liked him an awful lot. She was one of my best friends and I was afraid people would talk. Do you think I was wrong in not going out with him? He goes out with other girls now, but he won't go out with me. How can I get another chance with him?"

Loyalty to a girl friend is a very fine thing—but it can be carried too far. It's one thing to keep hands strictly off while she has reason to consider him her boy friend. I suppose your crowd would talk if any play you made for him was the cause of their breaking up. But once they're parted company (through no fault of yours), the lad is free to date anyone he wants to. And should his invitations come your way, you're free to accept them. Even though you know she still cares for him.

Her caring isn't patching things up between them. It isn't bringing him back. It's her own private little war which she'd be smart to get over as quickly as possible. Boycotting her old flame because she's still carrying a torch for him is accomplishing no good purpose.

Your own boycott discouraged him thoroughly. When you turned down his dates, you undoubtedly told him why. Which didn't do your cause any good. But it's all ancient history by this time. He's been freelancing around, and you might get another turn if you show you'd like to be friendly. Attract his second glance by saying more than "hi" when you see him. Then maybe he'll take another stab at asking you out.

Why Take It Personally?
"DEAR MISS WOODWARD: Since last Christmas I was with Jim four or five times on dates and at parties, and I

After your handful of dates with Jim, your interest in him became pretty important to you. But if he hasn't seen you or heard from you all summer, his interest in you took a vacation. He may remember again when he sees you. But when you see him, don't act as though he's your special property. Don't act as though your relationship is big and terrific. Consider it normal that you skipped his memory. But do your best to make a new, big and right impression so he'll be attracted again.

It would have been difficult to get hold of him when he was here that narrow the field a bit. Libby could have told friends so could Miriam Vankreel. Your aunt took the telegram over the phone."

The telephone rang and Kit and Hugo both started for it. Philip got there first. They leaned close to him and heard it, a missing sound that was at first meaningless. Philip said into the mouthpiece: "What is it? Speak up. Speak up."

The hissing sound was a whispering voice, sexless, inhuman. It went on and on. It told Philip to pay attention or they wouldn't get anywhere. It said that it had Libby and that Philip could have her back for $25,000. It said it had sent the man to the glove, but that if Philip was in any doubt it would send something else. It went on to say in detail, lowering itself so that Kit and Hugo heard only in bits, what it would do to Philip. It said that further instructions would be sent to Philip shortly about the payment of the $25,000, and repeated its warning about going to the police. Then it stopped.

Bucks Republicans To Hear Judicial Candidates Monday

Judge J. Colvin Wright, of the Superior Court, and President Judge Harold L. Ervin, of the Delaware County Common Pleas Court will be speakers at the Candidates' Night of Bucks County Republicans on Monday, Oct. 12, at the Loyal Republican Club of Buckingham.

The two Republican candidates for terms on the Pennsylvania Superior Court have been campaigning in many of the Commonwealth's sixty-seven counties. Both have been campaigning since late August and will continue to do so up to election day.

Judge Wright has been emphasizing the necessity of supporting all Republican candidates in this year's election as an aid to President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Victory Needed
"Victory this year will be a great step toward victory in the critical Congressional elections in 1954, which are so important for America's future," the Judge has declared.

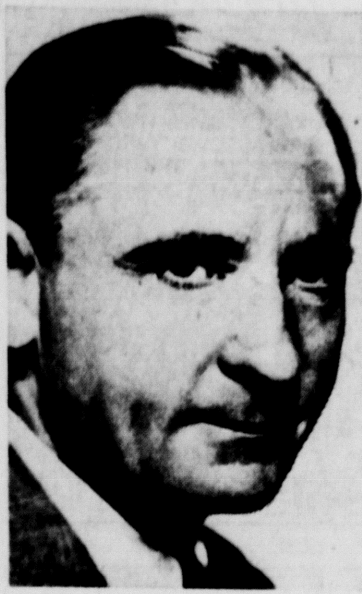

Judge Ervin has been seconding Judge Wright's plea for support of the President and also pointing out the loss of the state-wide election for the Superior Court will place that agency in control of the minority party.

A native of Bedford, Judge Wright was born on Nov. 20, 1901, the son of J. Anson and Anna J. Colvin Wright. He was graduated from Bedford High School and Harvard College and studied law at the University of Pennsylvania.

He practiced law in the Courts of Bedford, the Pennsylvania Supreme and Superior Federal Courts and the Supreme Court of the United States; served as District Attorney of Bedford County and also as County Solicitor. He was elected and re-elected President Judge of the Bedford County Common Pleas Court and presided, by assignment of the Supreme Court, in more than one-third of the Judicial Districts of the Commonwealth.

JUDGE J. COLVIN WRIGHT

JUDGE HAROLD L. ERVIN

Catawissa Native

Judge Ervin is President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Delaware County. A native of Catawissa, Columbia County, Judge Ervin was born Apr. 5, 1895, son of Isaac Gordon and Martha Ervin. He was educated in the Catawissa public schools and was graduated from the Catawissa High School and Temple University, studying law at the University of Pennsylvania.

He practiced law in the Courts of Delaware County, the Supreme and Superior Courts of Pennsylvania, the United States Supreme Court and also in the Courts of Philadelphia. He served as solicitor for a number of municipalities in Delaware County.

He was appointed Judge of the Delaware County Common Pleas Court in 1941 and became President Judge in 1948. He was nominated for re-election by both parties in 1951 and re-elected without opposition.

Delhaas High's Rise Described For PTA

The phenomenal growth of Delhaas High School was described for 200 parents and teachers of Bristol township last night by Robert H. Fraser, director of secondary education at Delhaas.

The occasion was the first fall meeting of the Delhaas Parent-Teacher Association. If attendance at the first meeting is a harbinger of things to come, members foresee a banner year.

Mrs. George Kemmerer, president, introduced association officers and committee chairman. Following a brief business meeting, in the school library, the group was addressed by Fraser. He pointed out that in 1942 the student body comprised but 157 pupils and that enrollment is now 1430. There were seven teachers in 1942, the faculty now totals 70. He also showed proportionate drawings of the school plan in 1942, and the present buildings, plus those under construction.

The assembly later broke up into smaller groups and proceeded to assign classrooms where "get-acquainted" session were held for parents and teachers. Suggestions were made regarding future programs. These were submitted to the program committee. An open meeting of this committee will be held in the school library next Monday.

Home-made cake and coffee were served.

Balk Candidates In PTA Meeting At Edgely Hall

When a meeting of East Bristol Township Parent-Teacher Association showed signs of being turned into what some claim had the earmarks of a "political rally," Wednesday evening, Norman Bottorff, principal of the two Edgely schools, found it necessary to demand order.

Bottorff went to the aid of the president, Mrs. Clayton Bintliff. This incident followed introduction of several political candidates from Bristol township.

Approximately 300 attended the meeting in Edgely Fire Co. hall.

Ulrich Frank, chairman of the Levittown Civic Association educational committee, asked the group to support the Levitt effort to get right of way from the state to build schools.

Miss Lillian Hradlick showed colored slides of historical and educational points of interest in Bristol Township. The running comment was given by Robert Krebs, intermediate supervisor of Bristol Township elementary schools.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Vincent Cox and Mrs. H. C. Maskrey.

Bucks County Man Hurt in Explosion

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Oct. 9. —(INS)—A Bucks county man was in critical condition today in Citizens-General Hospital in New Kensington after explosion of an oxygen tank. Two others were killed.

The blast occurred at the conduit plant of the General Electric Company.

Killed instantly were Robert I. Dirks, 41, and Robert A. Thunell, 41, both of Pittsburgh.

Falls Twp. Rapped For Its Failure On Road Repairs

According to William Erwin, consulting engineer, repairs the Bristol Township Board of Commissioners requested of the Falls Township Authority Sept. 25 have not been started.

Erwin said yesterday the repair of three Newportville roads, torn up when a ditch was dug for a sewer interceptor line to the Fergusonville waste disposal plant, was promised by the authority last month.

"If the authority does not make the necessary repairs," said Erwin, "we'll be forced to make them ourselves—and to send the bill to Falls Township."

John Collins, authority chairman, said the request was now in the hands of the contracting firm of James D. Morrissey, Inc., which dug up the road to install the interceptor line. "Our engineer, Howard A. LeVann, turned the request over to Morrissey for action," Collins said. "Now it's up to the contractor."

Identity Cleared In Collision Case

Anthony J. Angellilli, Jr., of 355 Pond street, Bristol, will not be charged with reckless driving as reported by Bensalem Township Patrolman William Schramm, according to Police Chief George Rentz.

The police chief said when Schramm investigated a collision early Tuesday on Bristol Pike near Appleton Avenue, Edgington, operator of one of the cars involved presented Angellilli's owner's card. Chief Rentz explained that Angellilli has sold the car to Theodore Dando, who resides in Northeast Philadelphia. Dando, who Rentz said was operating the car, will be charged with reckless driving and improper registration.

Candidate Blasts Tullytown Demos Action on Taxes

Mercantile Levy
'Panic Measure,' Boyer Charges

Tullytown Democrats were chided today for their "cracker barrel type of government (which) must be eliminated for the good of our growing community," by Edward B. Boyer, Republican candidate for Borough Council and GOP community chairman.

Boyer charged the Democrats with inept bookkeeping, a failure to see the need for increased tax assessments "a long time back" and an ill-considered "panic mercantile tax" to solve their borough budget problems.

Says System is Needed
In a prepared statement Boyer said:

"In order to formulate a tax program of benefit to all the people, it is first necessary to have a book-keeping system and budget which has been preplanned. This without a doubt is something the present inept Democratic council has not and apparently is not capable of doing."

"We, the Republican candidates for borough council, feel that the raise in assessments should have been started a long time back. After all the Warner Company (which recently accepted an increased assessed valuation) has been in the borough a long time."

Interests Questioned
"It is unfortunate that the present council has been looking after its own interests rather than that of the people they claim to represent."

"The panic mercantile tax (1½ mills on gross retail sales and 1 mill on wholesale sales) which was passed would have yielded much more revenue had the assessment problem been handled properly earlier."

"As it is the greater part of the money collected by the tax will either have to be held in escrow against next year's taxes or refunded to the merchants, which we seriously doubt."

Tax Explained
(Boyer explained that state law prohibits acceptance of taxes in excess of 10 mills of the real estate valuation of the community. The mercantile tax exceeded the maximum by $15,000 or $16,000, he stated.)

He continued: "While we feel the merchants should be taxed their fair share we do not feel that the portion of this tax which cannot be used should have been levied. This over-taxation is an injustice to the people... insofar as it deprives the merchants use of money normally allocated for the buying of merchandise that could be sold at reduced prices or at sales."

"This cracker barrel type of government must be eliminated for the good of our growing community and a good sound program instituted in its place which we, the Republican candidates, pledge."

LOWER SOUTHAMPTON WILL INSTALL SIGNALS

Installation of traffic signals at three busy intersections in Lower Southampton Township will begin "in a few days," Township Supervisor Phineas P. Ross said today.

Ross said approval for the installations near Buck Hotel on Route 532, at Route 918 and Churchville Pike and at Route 252 and Bridge-town road, was given by the State Highway Department.

James W. Carson, Feasterville electrician, will install the signals at an approximate $2,000 cost, according to Ross.

Demo Candidate Raps Tullytown Petition on Levy

A petition to have taxes paid by Levittown residents of Tullytown Borough set aside for use only in Levittown is based upon a "lack of understanding of the principles of taxation," Oscar S. Bortner, 65 Lilac Lane, Levittown, said today.

Bortner, attorney and Democratic candidate for councilman in Tullytown, said in a campaign statement that this theory, if carried out, would result in Tullytown Borough spending most of its revenue in the Levittown Shopping Center, which pays the greatest amount of taxes to the borough.

His statement, in answer to a petition prepared to be read before the borough council Monday night, went on to say: "This sounds like more of the slanderous whispering campaign the Young Republicans of Levittown have been spreading from door to door in Levittown, asking Levittowners to vote for them so they can control all of Tullytown Borough and do as they wish with it."

Lack of sewers and pavements in the older portion of Tullytown, he pointed out, is a handicap to everyone in the borough.

"The Republicans forget," he said, "that they send their children to school in Tullytown where they, too, are endangered by unsanitary conditions such as those that prevailed last spring when a creek overflowed on school property."

Phone Meeting For Newtown Is Delayed Again

A meeting between the Newtown Businessmen's Association and the Bell Telephone Company has been delayed for another two weeks, according to Stanley Sutton, president of the Association.

On Sept. 3, the company promised to report within two or three weeks what could be done to improve telephone service in the Newtown area.

The association had complained that the switchover to the new Windsor exchange left the area with reduced service. Telephone company representatives promised at that time to bring the complaints to the attention of proper officials and then to report back to the association.

"We hope to meet with them within the next two weeks, Sutton said, but if we don't we'll have to take action of our own."

Fox was given a watch, tools and firearms. Nora Fox was given a life right at 25 Brooks avenue. Katherine Fox was named the residuary beneficiary.

They're Up To No Good

SMILES on the faces of these Delhaas High gridders and their coach are deceiving. The Tigers are plotting nothing good for Pennsbury High's grid forces in their annual clash tonight. From left: Coach John Antoni, End Joe Venebush, Fullback Bob Morris and Quarterback Bob White, heroes of the Tigers' 13-0 win over Bristol last week.

Delhaas, Pennsbury Clash

Another weekend of Lower Bucks County League turmoil goes into the works tonight when Pennsbury and Delhaas Highs, traditional rivals-to-be tangle at 8 o'clock on Robert Morris field in Morrisville.

It will mark the second and last time the two mushrooming institutions collide in a common, ordinary football game. Henceforward, and starting in 1954, this will be an annual Thanksgiving Day squabble that closes the season.

What tonight's test might lack by the embryonic nature of the rivalry certainly will be made up in football ferocity. The combatants have matching 2-1 records against comparable opponents. They both lost to defending titlist Neshaminy, the Tigers taking a 28-0 licking and Pennsbury a 24-20 shaving. Both defeated Bristol, Pennsbury by 24-6 and Delhaas 13-0. And each owns a win over LEBCL second division teams. And last year they played to a narrow 13-6 Pennsbury victory.

Again, as has been Delhaas' case all year, the Tigers will bank on the other hand, is figured to own the better attack.

Key Players
Each team has its wheelhorse. Dave Bray heads a coterie of talented Falcon backs, while Bob Morris is the best of the Delhaas lot from any angle.

Both teams are efficient running teams, but neither has shown exceptional overhead power. Both demonstrated porous pass defenses in action against Neshaminy, but have improved since.

The balance is carried out to a fair degree in manpower. The rivals operated the league's most efficient and effective benches. Delhaas often uses 30 or more players, and Pennsbury ordinarily can be expected to air at least two full teams. The weight distribution is just about even-up.

Three Attacks

Coach John Antoni's Tigers are expected to unfurl at least three attacking plans, the T, single and double wing. Pennsbury, under Jim Egli, adheres principally to the T, but is equipped for single wing work.

Bray could hold the key to the whole shooting match. He damaged an ankle at Southampton last week and may or may not be at top speed. If he is, observers expect the Falcons to come off a substantial winner. If not, the improving Tigers could win it.

Whatever happens, the game is expected to draw one of the year's best LEBCL crowds in the ample Morrisville arena.

For Pennsbury it will be Averill Queen and John Setzler at ends, Dave Lynn and Ray Hill at tackles; John White and Ron Pope at guards, Guy Curtis at center and Bray with Mike Baldoyari, Jim Baslow and Tom MacMillan in the backfield.

Vito Della, manager, was given a gold wrist watch in appreciation of his work in organizing St. Ann's youth basketball and baseball teams. All presentations were made by James Thompson, president of the league.

Frank Torano, representing Torano's Garage, awarded a pitching trophy to Jimmy Moore, St. Ann's, who won eight and did not lose a game. It was announced that Moore is but 13 years of age.

Most Valuable

Harry Schurr, St. Ann's, was voted the most valuable player of the league. He was awarded a trophy donated by Angelo Brothers and presented by President Thompson.

The invocation and benediction for the affair was by the Very Rev. Father Peter Pinci, Provinciate of the Trinitarian Fathers of the United States. Rev. Pinci gave a talk on sportsmanship and praised the league officials for their efforts in organizing the league.

The league president was introduced by Thomas Juno, who welcomed the players and guests to the banquet. Thompson gave a talk on Little-Bigger League baseball and told how the local circuit was organized. He stated that there were 2,500 Little-Bigger teams last season.

New League

Thompson told the group there was a possibility of organizing a 15-20 year old league next season.

MONTREAL WINS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — (INS) — The Montreal Royals, owned by the Brooklyn Dodgers, ruled as winners of the little world series today after defeating the Kansas City Blues, farm team of the New York Yankees, 7 to 2.

The Blues, American Association playoff victors, were held to seven hits Thursday night by Hamp Coleman of the Royals, International League champions.

FEATURE COLUMN

"Dusting Off The News," by staffer Charles O. Molz offers a lighter look at some of the news in your Bristol Courier, Lower Bucks County's Own Daily.

in this Corner

—with JOE MUCH—

Comparisons, if you subscribe to the showman's cliché, are odious. Yet sports fans constantly are comparing. They find worthwhile diversion in balancing out the merits of the New York Yankees of the 30's and the current brand of Bombers. They will choose sides to debate the relative skills of Hank Luisetti and George Mikan. And the legions of Red Grange aficionados wouldn't walk around the corner to see Steve VanBuren make shredded wheat of a Green Bay Packer line.

Locally, the faithful are wont these days to compare Neshaminy High School's championship 1952 football team with the championship-bound 1953 edition. It makes interesting grist for the weekday mill, but the only man who is licensed to assess both teams equitably is having none of it. "It's too early," says Redskin chief Frank Franks. "To compare the two clubs."

Comparison
Then Franks, a darkly handsome and deliberate young man out of Pennsylvania Dutch country, proceeds to unfold a cautious comparison.

"I know one thing," he says, "the 1952 team averaged 185 pounds per man. This one goes about 150."

"Last year we knew we had it," he continues, "Why, we had to beat Bensalem in the last game for the championship, and we didn't even bother to scout them."

Neshaminy won, 33-7, tacking on the ninth in a string of victories that now has reached an imposing dozen.

The 1953 Neshaminy Express, Franks points out, is ahead of the schedule set by the once-beaten '52's. It has scored more points and permitted fewer and has a 3-0 mark compared to a 2-1 reading at this stage a year ago. The champs of last season were whipped soundly by Ambler in an opener.

Franks calls that one a "physical beating." "They had us outmanned and were nearer ready than we were," he explains. One game later the Redskins were equipped to challenge a regiment of cavalry and still are.

Independent

Neshaminy's skipper dropped the suggestion that the 1952 team was best capable of going it alone. It could run and it could pass and its big line was ready to dismantle anything that moved.

This year Franks has been unable to uncover a quarterback he can trust. Every Redskin maneuver comes off the bench and the signal-caller is a fig. -head, who needs only a resonant baritone delivery in order to hold his post.

Franks is aware that, in calling the dance from the chairs, he destroys all recourse in case the thing goes sour. He has an unannounced, but apparent confidence that his robots are capable of executing his commands to the letter.

The Secret

One had to be listening attentively to absorb them, but Franks in a generous mood was passing out secrets of his success. They were ridiculously simple and boiled down to this:

"We look for the other team's weakness. They all have weaknesses. Then we use them for touchdowns."

It figures. Franks' avalanche sifted through Pennsbury for a pair of touchdowns before the Falcons knew what season it was. Delhaas, woefully weak in the secondary, had its brains scattered over the landscape by Ken Kauffman's needle-threading passing. And Morrisville, doggedly determined that it would check Neshaminy's pass party, went away and left the gate open for Don Cameron's flossy running.

"The object," Franks said, "is to score."

SPORTS SHORTS

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Philadelphia's Gil Turner who defeated Italo Scorticini in Detroit Wednesday night, returned home today to resume his training for a bout with fellow townsman Johnny Bernardo next Thursday at the Arena.

Open to All Teams

The group voted unanimously to throw the proposed conference open to all entries between Andalusia and Morrisville, Newtown and Bristol. Basketball teams interested in filing entry are asked to signify their intentions definitely at the Oct. 22 meeting, Gouza said.

Plans will be made to accommodate more than eight teams if the demand is sufficient, he pointed out.

The league went into effect formally on a motion from the floor that "the spirit of this meeting is to form an organization to inspire, promote and sponsor athletics in Lower Bucks County."

Plans call for the eventual establishing of a controlling board that will explore the organization of leagues in all competitive sports.

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — A suit of minority stockholders seeking an injunction to prevent the switch of the St. Louis Browns baseball club to Baltimore will be heard today before Judge William Flynn in St. Louis.
